NECESSITY OF RULES

Rules and laws are necessary in society to maintain ord people's rights, and ensure fairness. They help define r what individuals and institutions are expected to do to community's well-being. For example, laws about payir that everyone contributes their fair share to support pu schools, roads, and healthcare. Also, laws guide how w or officials to positions of power, ensuring this process transparent. Without rules and laws, responsibilities co taxes might not be collected fairly, and leaders could be leading to chaos and inequality.

3 Branches of Government

The United States government has three branches that work together. The legislative branch makes the laws. This branch includes Congress, which has the Senate and the House of Representatives. The executive branch carries out the laws. The President is the leader of this branch. The judicial branch makes sure the laws are fair. It includes the Supreme Court and other judges. If people have a problem with a law, the judicial branch helps decide what is right. Judges listen to both sides and make a fair decision. These three branches help each other and make sure no one has too much power.
